

BIGGER NAVY FUND URGED BY MINORITY

REPUBLICANS OF HOUSE NAVAL COMMITTEE CALL $241,000,000 APPROPRIATION INADEQUATE.

MORE FIGHTING CRAFT

Advise Building of Two Dreadnaughts, One Battle Cruiser and Thirty Submarines More Than Recommended.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, May 25.—Republican members of the house naval affairs committee in a minority report submitted to the house today denounced the $241,000,000 naval appropriation bill reported by the majority as wholly inadequate and urged more liberal advances to make the United States navy the second largest in the world. The minority charge that the majority report is contrary to opinions of naval experts and recommendations of Secretary Daniels, and was based on a compromise between interests which wanted no additional naval protection and those which wanted only a slight increase.

The republicans recommended that the bill provide for two dreadnaughts omitted by the majority measure, six battle cruisers instead of two, fifty coast defense submarines instead of twenty, $3,500,000 for aircraft instead of $2,000,000, still greater increase in personnel, creation of national defense council and means for financing the building program by using more than one shift of workmen daily.

The report suggested that the two dreadnaughts be built according to the plans now ready for the California and Tennessee, so that all might be finished simultaneously. The bill should provide the report declared, for the full number of men required on a peace basis, and should authorize the president to order at his discretion enlistment of such additional men as he might need, not to exceed 75,000 recommended by the general board.

"We have seventy-two submarines built and building," said the minority. "The lowest estimate of our requirements by any naval authority is 150."

The general board advised the expenditure of $7,000,000 on the aerological service, the report pointed out.

Commenting on the proposal for a defense council, it said:

"Experience in modern war has led to the creation of a defense council, such a council to insure unity, continuity and co-operation in all branches of national defense."

GAVIRA TO CONFER WITH GEN. PERSHING

Will Seek to Determine Ways of Co-operating in Chasing Down Bandit Gangs.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

El Paso, March 25.—General Gavira, newly constituted commander of Mexican military forces, today announced that he intended to ask General Pershing, commander of the American expeditionary force, to a conference at which could be secured details of cooperation for chasing down the bandits of Chihuahua.

U. S. Troop Movement.

Columbus, May 25.—A new movement of American troops along General Pershing's line of communication was reported here today.

The movement made within the last 48 hours was said to offset the redistribution of certain Arizona commands, but no details were available from military headquarters, and it was pointed out any movements under way were minor and not effect the general expeditionary policy.

A quantity of supplies and other ammunition which arrived here from the front Monday, today were sent back.

GIRL IS FOUND DEAD IN ROOM AT AURORA

Fifteen Year Old Girl Believed to Have Been Murdered—Police Take One Man in Custody.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Aurora, Ill., May 25.—Gwendolyn Heiden, the fifteen year old daughter of Mrs. Anna Collins, was found dead in her home last night under conditions which indicate she may have been murdered. The mother found her body on a couch in an unlocked room, the doors leading into the room being locked. On a small table near the body was a cup partially filled with poison. Mrs. Collins called the police, who later took into custody a man, Armstrong, in connection with the death. It is said he has been arrested by the police until today.

FARM LOAN BANKS SCORED BY SMITH

President S. M. Smith of Bankers' Association Declares Pending Laws Vicious.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, May 25.—S. M. Smith of the Wisconsin Bankers' Association, speaking before the local branch of that organization today, described as vicious the legislative bill pending before congress for the establishment of farm loan banks. Smith declared that what he termed as "disgraceful features of the bill will not appeal to the thoughtful and democratic man."

WAITE'S BROTHERS TELL OF DENTIST'S MENTAL WEAKNESS

His Peculiarities of Youth and Manhood Point to Insanity They Declare at Murder Trial.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, May 25.—The fight to save Dr. Arthur Warren Waite from the electric chair, began today before Justice Shearn of the criminal branch of the supreme court.

Waite's legal counsel for Dr. Waite, began his opening address for the defense when the hearing was resumed. He said he expected to finish his case for the defense by Friday night.

Attendance Falls Off.

Attendance at the trial was somewhat decreased today. Mrs. Clara Peck Waite, the prisoner's wife, sat near the jury box partly hidden from the gaze of spectators. Miss Elsiebeth B. Harwick, who sent the "K. K. K." message, giving Percy Peck warning of suspicion of murder, was in court, as were also Warren Waite, father of the young dentist, and Frank A. Waite, his brother.

In beginning his address, Mr. Deuel told the jury it would be shown Dr. Waite was of unsound mind. He also announced the prisoner would take the stand in his own behalf. Waite's history, the attorney added, will show his mental weakness, his father and two brothers would testify as to the prisoner's condition and concerning circumstances in his early life. Counsel sought to produce alienists to show Waite's mind diseased.

Frank A. Waite, the dentist's brother, was the first witness for the defense. He said that because Dr. Waite had a large head, the other members of the Waite family "poked fun at him." He said his brother lagged on the way to school when a child, and was always getting into trouble with other boys. Arthur was eighteen years old when he entered the University of Michigan. Later while in South Africa, he sent back $7,000 and brought $1,500 more when he returned. He was said to be addicted to drink.

The brother described visits to Waite's apartments when he lay in a stupor from a narcotic, and said the lucid intervals acted as a gardener, than when normal. Dr. Waite, the witness said, never discussed his intention to marry Clara Peck, until after their marriage.

Cross-examined, Frank A. Waite remembered telling a physician at Bellevue hospital there was no apparent mental deficiency or criminality in the Waite family.

He said he did not see his brother reading a book on arsenic and did not recall hearing Arthur say after the death of Peck that he had been told he could get arsenic from a gardener to put into the embalming fluid.

Waite, as a boy, was cruel to animals, developed a habit of lying, and home and classmates from school and college, according to Clyde Waite, another brother. On cross examination he was asked by the prosecutor if his own account of the condition of the man in Grand Rapids. This, he admitted and said: "I made the amount up."

Clyde Waite denied that he received financial aid from the prisoner. He made good the deficit, although the prosecution introduced a check drawn by Dr. Waite to the order of the witness, for $10,000. The prosecution read a letter from Dr. Waite, promising Clyde $15,000 if he needed it to buy a farm and telling him he could have more if he wanted it.

Insanity in Family.

Warren W. Waite, the dentist's father, who next testified, said Miles Waite, the prisoner's grandfather, disappeared in 1871 and was never seen again by his family. One of the witness' aunts died in an insane asylum, one of her sons is now in an asylum and another was for a time in a hospital in Ann Arbor, the witness testified.

SUBPOENAS PARENTS OF MARIAN LAMBERT

Counsel for Will Orpet Will Ask Them to Testify Regarding Girl's Mental Condition.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Waukegan, May 25.—Counsel for Will H. Orpet, the University of Wisconsin student, who is on trial here under charges of the death of Marian Lambert, his sweetheart, announced today that the parents of the dead girl had been subpoenaed to appear as witnesses in the case. They are expected to testify regarding the girl's mental condition just before her death, when it has been asserted she was despondent and confused with her parents about her trouble with the accused. The defense would attempt to show that Lambert was in such a mental condition there existed a strong presumption of suicide. A Chicago physician who attended the girl shortly before her death also is expected to testify regarding her condition.

When the members of the sixth venire appeared in court today an effort was made to expedite the selection of jurors and it was predicted that the work would move faster, as nearly all of the talsmen called are expected to be able to pass the literacy test on account of which several hundred had been excused.

Three More Jurors.

Within half an hour after court had convened, three jurors had been accepted by the state and tendered to the defense. The first was Theodore R. Durst, president of the Security Savings Bank of Waukegan, who is the father of several children. The state's John Riehnart, a bricklayer, and L. R. Merwin, at arm hand. Both are married.

Declarations by business and professional men of Waukegan and vicinity that the sixth venire that they had formed opinions in the case, seeking thereby to be excused, brought a sharp rebuke from Judge Donnelly, who is sitting the case.

Judge Delivers Rebuke.

"It is not an evidence of a high order of citizen, to seek to evade jury service in this case," he said. "We are having a hard time to get a jury in order that justice may be done, and men who are qualified to serve on this jury should do so."

AID IN HARMONIZING NATIONS AFTER WAR IS TASK FOR WOMEN

Mrs. Percy Pennybacker, Federation Head, Sees Great Work Ahead for Women, She Tells Biennial Gathering.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, May 25.—A step from nationalistic to internationalism, so that assistance may be rendered in a world-wide movement, by women to "harmonize the nations" after the close of the European war, was recommended to the General Federation of Women's Clubs by Mrs. Percy Pennybacker, of Austin, Tex., in her report as president, read here today at the thirteenth biennial convention of the organization.

"While we call ourselves the General Federation of Women's Clubs, yet we may as well face the fact that we shall be the organization of the world," Mrs. Pennybacker said. "On the continent of Europe and in other countries little is known of the federal movement is represented by the National Councils of Women all united in the International Council of Women."

Now there is only one way in which the federation can be represented in this international council, and that is by joining the already long-established National Council of Women in the United States.

"I will confess that there is a deeper reason that makes me so eager to see this brought to pass. When the cruel war is over and peace comes, we shall be in the international council, ready to help in the work of harmonizing the nations which are now at war—ready for call to wise common counsel women who for so many years have accustomed to work side by side."

"I pray that the 2,000,000 women of the federation may have the privilege of sitting in the council and of helping to bring back joy and harmony to the women of the world."

Mrs. Pennybacker made other recommendations of importance to the future activities of the federation. One of these urged that the organization "go on record as favoring a continuance of effort on the lines of improvement of rural life and the Americanization of the immigrant. In this connection the president explained that her administration, having "early felt the need of proper alliance with the government," had established a system of cooperation with the departments of agriculture, interior and labor.

"Every club which is willing to aid the government in Americanizing the immigrant, should place its name on the list," Mrs. Pennybacker urged. "It is invited to send the name of its president and secretary to the president of the federation. These names shall be filed with the commissioner of immigration. When a foreign family lands, destined for a town in which a woman's club exists, if the commissioner signs his list that this club has signed its willingness to cooperate, a letter will immediately be sent to the president of the club. It is not money that these people want, but it is the touch of human sympathy, the assurance that there is a place for them in the community that women know so well how to give."

These alliances with the government branches, Mrs. Pennybacker declared, strengthen up the club in the dignified position where we belong and aid us in doing efficient scientific work; each step taken helps our government and it is a place for action, each such cooperative step helps the whole cause of womanhood."

Chicago, May 25.—A result of the European war will be seen here Saturday in the launching of the Sigrd Rind, the first ocean-going boat to be built here in nine years. The ship is owned by the Norwegian Steamship company and will be used in freight business between Norway and the United States.

Miss Florence E. Krabbe, a Chicago high school girl of Norwegian parentage, will christen the steamer.

GALLERY GODS' CHORUS AT H. S. PLAY REHEARSAL FALL WITH BARS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Appleton, May 25.—While the high school chorus was rehearsing at the armory last night for tonight's musical festival two sections of bleacher seats collapsed, dropping scores of persons a distance of ten feet to the floor. Elizabeth Chamberlain, suffering bruises about the chest, and Marjory Thomas received a sprained ankle and injuries. Many others received minor injuries.

GRAND JURY PROMPT TO INDICT LEADERS IN IRISH REBELLION

True Bills Returned Against Casement and Bailey and Their Trial Set for June 26th.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, May 25.—The grand jury today returned true bills against Sir Roger Casement, leader of the Sinn Fein rebels, and Daniel J. Bailey, former British soldier, held as his accomplice.

The action of the grand jury follows the preliminary hearing before the police magistrate at which Casement and Bailey withheld their defense and were held without bail pending the grand jury deliberation.

Seventy-five grand jurors were summoned by Lord Chief Justice Reading today, and from their number twenty-three were selected to decide whether indictments for high treason should be returned against the two prisoners. Their decision was reached promptly.

The judge fixed the trial of Sir Roger for June 26.

BURKETT MENTIONED FOR VICE-PRESIDENT

Boom for Nebraska Man Already Under Way With Several Hundred Delegates Pledged.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Omaha, Neb., May 24.—A vice presidential boom for Senator Elmer J. Burkett of Nebraska is under way and it is said already between 250 and 300 delegates to the republican national convention are pledged to place him on the national ticket of his party.

Montana, Iowa, Nebraska and other western delegates are instructed for Burkett, and a number of other delegates have expressed themselves as favoring his candidacy for vice president.

The demand for the Nebraska man is greatest in the central and far west, but delegates from a number of southern states have written Burkett headquarters to the effect that they will be with him in the Chicago convention.

The demand for Burkett is not sectional is shown by the fact that the delegates from Montana are instructed for him, and that the Iowa delegation is asked to place him on the ticket. California cities there are strong Burkett for vice president clubs, and more than half of the North Carolina delegation have expressed themselves as being in favor of the Nebraska man, and that at the Burkett headquarters 1,000 letters are being received every day, all "boosting" Burkett for the vice presidency.

BIG LIGHTING PLANT FIRED BY LIGHTNING

Power Company's Establishment at La Crosse Destroyed With Loss of $75,000.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

La Crosse, Wis., May 25.—The lighting plant of the Wisconsin and Minnesota Light & Power company was completely destroyed by fire early today, which was started by a bolt of lightning during a severe electrical storm. The loss is estimated at $75,000 fully covered by insurance.

The storm was one of the worst of its kind in history of the city. All factories and business places depending on electric power have been forced to close. Street cars on wire service were put out of commission, and newspapers will be compelled to issue abbreviated editions today.

Owing to heavy rains washout on railroads are reported.

GERMANS COMPLAIN OF ILL TREATMENT IN FRENCH PRISONS

Berlin Newspaper Carries Account of Alleged Unbearable Conditions in Detention Camps.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, wireless Sayville, May 25.—An account of the treatment of German prisoners in France, said to have been obtained from incapacitated German soldiers who have been sent to French camps, who apparently pay no attention to instructions, the newspaper says.

Lack Competent Supervision.

"This may be due to the fact that the French war minister does not exercise sufficiently close supervision of the camps."

"Severely wounded prisoners in several camps were not exchanged, although they were only able to move about on crutches."

"Virtually all prisoners returned in rags. In several cases it was pointed out that clothing sent from home was withheld from them. Special complaints were lodged against commander and an interpreter at Camp Borcellette, who put the wounded through hard labor. It was further stated that in several camps the French men were sent wearing trousers which had been sent from Germany for imprisoned Germans. The railroad station office of Bruner, situated nearby, has been filled with parcels sent from Germany since September, 1915."

Camp Conditions Criticized.

"Complaints were made by the ex-changed prisoners regarding the camp at Sundun, where non-commissioned officers are given the right to punish prisoners with arrest. In camp Maselet, the prison room is so small for living down. It is only possible for a soldier to sit at the same camp, parcels sent from Germany are ransacked by the guards. The interpreters have cupboards filled with stolen cigars and other things."

"Never, the prisoners were forced to work hard and even on Sunday. In La Pallice, the food was exceedingly poor. Prisoners were forced to send home forage for their families."

Further complaints were made by the prisoners regarding the kind of work, which captured professors, lawyers, artists and clergymen were forced to do, such as unloading ships and repairing roads, canals and railway tracks."

Decline to Make Changes.

"The French government when asked to change these arrangements, replied that it was impossible to accept French democratic ideas. The French government also declined to transfer war prisoners from the unhealthful African climate."

"Apparently in answer to the German requests, French newspapers now publish the news that captured French have been employed in the Russian swamps. It is semi-officially stated that this report is untrue. French men employed in the occupied parts of Russia, are in a much better position than are the Germans, who must spend a second summer in the field under the North African sky, and who are forced to work hard."

TO ASK INDICTMENT AGAINST DETECTIVE

Complaint Will be Signed Against W. J. Burns in New York Wire Tapping Case—Catholic Clergymen Implicated.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, May 25.—Fresh legal proceedings, both criminal and civil, were started today by the Catholic clergy against William J. Burns, the detective, for unlawfully entering Seymour's office, Mayor Mitchell's alleged criminal action against prominent Catholic clergymen whom he accused of conspiring to pervert justice, and interfere with wire tapping. District Attorney Swann said that Frederick Seymour, the attorney had, without a signed complaint, which would enable the public prosecutor to ask the grand jury for indictments against William J. Burns, the detective, for unlawfully entering Seymour's office. Mayor Mitchell's alleged criminal action against prominent Catholic clergymen whom he accused of conspiring to pervert justice, and interfere with wire tapping. District Attorney Swann said that Frederick Seymour, the attorney had, without a signed complaint, which would enable the public prosecutor to ask the grand jury for indictments against William J. Burns, the detective, for unlawfully entering Seymour's office.

Monsignor John J. Donn, chancellor of Roman Catholic diocese of New York, told the witness stand today before the Thompson legislative commission investigating wire tapping, denounced Mayor Mitchell's alleged use of "dishonest and unworthy methods" in tapping his telephone wires to gain information, and denied charges by the mayor that he had promised money to get a witness out of the jurisdiction of the commission which investigated charitable institutions now before the state senate.

From the witness stand Monsignor Dunn entered emphatic denial that he had ever promised Dr. D. C. Potter money to get out of jurisdiction of investigation commission. A newspaper alleged telephone conversation made public by Mayor Mitchell. He explained he knew the telephone wire was being tapped and the conversation between himself and Potter was a "trap."

I never gave Dr. Potter a dollar in my life at that time, previous to it or since, he said. I never asked him for any money, and he never asked me for any."

FALL OF DOUAUMONT ADMITTED BY FRENCH; NEW GERMAN GAINS

Fortress Near Verdun Recaptured by Germans Who Also Make Advance at Haudremont, West of Meuse.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris, May 25.—The fall of Douaumont was announced in the official communication issued by the French war office Wednesday night, which reads:

"On the left bank of the Meuse the infantry action continued east of Le Mort Homme. Several lines of our artillery fire stopped the enemy who had attempted to debouch from the village of Cumieres. During the afternoon a spirited counter attack enabled us to retake trenches situated on the southern outskirts of the village."

"On the right bank the bombardment was redoubled in the region of Fort Douaumont, on which the enemy had particularly set itself. Furious attacks with two Bavarian divisions, arrived on this front, succeeded in capturing the fortress. The enemy's fruitless attempts at enormous losses, the enemy succeeded in recouping the ruins of the fort. Our troops hold the immediate approach."

Paris, May 25.—German troops made an attack last night on French positions on the Verdun front west of the Meuse. The German attack was repulsed and obtained a footing in the French trenches, the war office announced today. East of Cumieres, to the west of Meuse, the French made some progress in hand grenade fighting.

FRANCE AND ITALY RECALL MINISTERS

Action Taken When Greece Refuses to Allow Passage of Serb Troops Across Peninsula.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, wireless Sayville, May 25.—It is reported from Athens, the news agency said, that Greece has recalled Count A. de Botsari, the Italian minister to Greece, and J. Guillemin, the French minister, have been recalled from their governments because of the failure of their efforts to obtain permission for the congregation of Serbian troops throughout Greece.

The entente allies endeavored vainly to persuade Greece to permit them to transport the Serbian army at Corfu, a Greek island of the east coast, overland to the Saloniki front. They were reported to have threatened to employ forcible means, but Greece persisted in her refusal. It was announced in London recently that the government had been reached, and there would be no breach of the neutrality of Greece.

Berlin, wireless Sayville, May 25.—Field Marshal Von Kluck, who seventy years old on Saturday, has received many congratulatory messages, one being from Emperor William. The field marshal's health has been restored, although one bullet has not yet been extracted, and he has again offered his services to the emperor.

Field Marshal Von Kluck, the defeat of whose army at the Marne halted the German advance into France in the early days of the war, was wounded by shrapnel fire in March last year while inspecting advance positions.

SPEECH BY WILSON REPORTED IN BERLIN

Prominence Given in Newspapers to President's Utterances at Charlotte, N. C., Regarding Mediation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, May 25.—A wireless dispatch from United States giving the substance of President Wilson's speech at Charlotte, N. C., in which he referred to possibility of American mediation in the war, was given the place of honor in the morning papers. Though definitely stated nowhere, there is little doubt that Germany is willing to inaugurate peace negotiations.

Wilson's Views.

Washington, May 25.—President Wilson told callers today that the intervention of a neutral in behalf of peace in Europe could rest only on mutual understanding by the belligerents that terms to be arranged are to conserve the interests of all of the world at large, rather than those of a particular nation or group of nations among warring powers.

METHODISTS TO RETAIN OLD RULES

REFUSE TO REMOVE PROHIBITION ON CARD PLAYING, DANCING AND THEATRE GOING.

DAY FOR ELIMINATION

Chancellor Day of Syracuse University Leads in Fight for Relaxation of Church Discipline.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., May 25.—The Methodist General Conference refused today by a vote of 435 to 460, to remove from the discipline of the church the clause which provides the penalty of expulsion for church members who play cards, dance and attend theatres.

Before the vote was taken, a rule was unanimously adopted cutting off all debate, but permitting brief statements to be made by Chancellor James R. Day of Syracuse, who presented a report requesting the elimination of the clause, and by Frank Neff of Tulsa, Okla., who spoke for the majority report, advising that no change be made.

Day Urges Elimination.

In asking removal of the clause, Mr. Day proposed the substitution of a warning, which he characterized as the "strongest pronouncement" the Methodist church has ever made to the world on this question. He asserted this was sufficient to make the position of the church clear as opposed to these amusements.

STRATHCONA'S HEIRS WILL PAY BIG TAX

Wisconsin Tax Investigators Scent
Possible Evasion in Ante-mortem
Sale of N. P. Stock.

Madison, Wis., May 25.—Whether the heirs of the late Donald Alexander, Lord Strathcona, will be compelled to pay an additional inheritance tax is a matter to be settled by the courts here. According to the petition following his death at the age of ninety-three years, he was the owner of 24 1/2 shares of stock in the Northern Pacific railroad at the time of his death. Upon this the court found that the tax was $99,492.34.

It has now been discovered by inheritance tax counsel John Harrison and Public Administrator J. C. Harper that on August 30, five months before his death, Lord Strathcona transferred to Margaret Charlotte Howard and John W. Sterling 8,800 shares of Northern Pacific stock. These shares, according to Mr. Harper, were of a market value of $1,003,200 on January 1, 1914. The date of the death of Lord Strathcona, and were not included in the 29,552 shares that have been taxed.

PAUL C. SAUNDERS NEW CHEMISTRY TEACHER AT MILTON

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Milton, Wis., May 25.—Paul C. Saunders of Conneville, Pa. has accepted the professorship of chemistry in Milton college. Mr. Saunders is a graduate of Alfred university and has tonight there as assistant in the department of chemistry. He has for the past two years been teacher of science in a large and excellent high school at Conneville, where he has been asked to continue next year at advanced salary. He desires, however, to become engaged in college work and at the same time to pursue advanced studies, as he is now doing at Columbia university. He may enter the summer school at the University of Wisconsin. Professor Saunders will begin his duties at the opening of Milton college in September. His wife is a daughter of the Rev. W. L. Burdick of Alfred, New York, who is somewhat well known in Rock county.

The Whitewater high school defeated the Milton high school Wednesday by a score of 4 to 2. It was a well played game except in the fifth inning when pitcher Randolph weakened and a hit and a bunch of errors allowed the visitors to score their only runs of the game.

G. O. P. PLATFORM OF '88
CONTAINED A DRY PLANK

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Madison, Wis., May 25.—Comment in the papers that William J. Bryan may ask the democratic national convention to consider a plank on prohibition has brought to light an old republican national platform of 1888 which contained a plank on the very subject. The matter appears to have been entirely forgotten. It was recently unearthed by a student who was making a comparison of the platform declarations of the republicans.

HOLD MEETING JUNE 1ST

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Madison, Wis., May 25.—The summer meeting of the Wisconsin Guernsey Breeders' association will be held June 1, on the farm of Dale H. Ruedell, Livingston, Grant county. Addresses will be given at that time by Dr. M. B. Wood of Mankato, Minn., on "1905 and 1915," and by Dr. Ruedell on "St. Croix county on 'A-Beginner's Experience With Guernseys'." Dr. Wood addressed this association in 1904 and his survey will tell of the growth of the breed interests in Wisconsin since that date.

During the past year Wisconsin contributed more members to the Guernsey cattle club than any other state in the Union. This success has just been made by one of the officials of the association.

Orfordville News

Orfordville, May 24.—H. F. Silverthorn transacted business at Madison on Wednesday.

John Gansel of Brodhead, was in the village on Tuesday afternoon between trains. He reports business in his line rushing in the Green county city.

James Hammell and his force of workmen are erecting a silo and a garage for Charles Hawk of the town of Center.

While John Olmstead was returning from Janesville with three other passengers in his car, on Tuesday evening, one of the hind wheels was broken off at the hub. Fortunately no one was hurt, and after telephoning for help, the disabled car was put in condition and the party returned home.

On Wednesday Mr. and Mrs. Thorton Gunderson celebrated their silver wedding. A company of their friends had become apprised of the date and arranged for a gathering commensurate of the event, at the parlors of the Lutheran church. There was a large company present. Choice and delicate refreshments were served and Mr. and Mrs. Gunderson were the recipients of several useful and valuable tokens to remind them of the event of a quarter of a century ago.

DELAVAN

Delavan, May 23.—Born this morning to Dr. and Mrs. Benjamin Holmes, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Shultz returned yesterday from a three days' auto drive through the country.

OFFICIAL PHOTOGRAPHS OF EXPEDITIONARY FORCES IN MEXICO

Members of Sixth Infantry, making rush with fixed bayonets. Carrying wounded Sergeant McGhee off the field.

These official photographs of the expeditionary forces in Mexico would seem to indicate that the boys below the boundary are not taking part in a picnic party. Upper photo shows the Sixth Infantry in maneuvers rushing the enemy with fixed bayonets. These maneuvers are a part of the daily program of the troops in camp at the San Antonio base. Lower photo shows Sergeant Benjamin McGhee of the Thirtieth cavalry, who was wounded in the fight at Parral, being carried by comrades to the ambulance which will rush him to the border for treatment. Sergeant McGhee was entering Parral with a column under Major Tompkins, and was in the act of giving orders to his squad when a bullet fired by a Mexican entered his mouth and lodged in his throat. Sergeant McGhee is expected to recover.

YOU CAN ALMOST TALK TO HER
—THIS 3400 r. p. m. CHALMERS

They're buying motor cars today as they're hiring men—on ability.

Blue eyes, brown hair, a rugged jaw, mean something—but not so much as they used to.

They're seeking ability. And that is not always measured in stature, weight and reach.

Likewise in a car. They look her over, learn her wheel-base, note the tire sizes, ask the bore and stroke of the engine and then—

They make her perform.

They make her hit the trail, they roll her up the steepest hill. They let her out on the straightaway, and they make her accelerate at slow speeds.

It's the only way to judge a car. And we're particularly glad, because we have in the 3400 r.p.m. Chalmers a car that answers every human wish.

You can almost talk to this animal. You can lead her anywhere. We know of no one who has ever called on her for too much, nor asked of her anything she couldn't deliver.

She's like a young ballplayer who keeps driving 'em over the right-field fence.

She's there. And the reason is her magnificent 3400 r. p. m. engine. When history in our business is written, 3400 r. p. m. will occupy a thick chapter.

Simply because at the lowest speeds she saves her energy, turns up only 500 r. p. m. at 10 miles an hour, and 1000 r. p. m. at 20 miles an hour.

Thus using only 18 per cent of her power at such speeds and saving 62 to 80 per cent for winding, hilly roads, bad turns, and on occasions when a little extra power gives you possession of the road.

One ride of five miles behind the wheel and you'll own it.

Ask your dealer about Chalmers service inspection coupons, negotiable at all Chalmers dealers everywhere. This system is a most important consideration in buying your car.

MESOPOTAMIA.

To those who know something of the history of this "land in the world," the Mesopotamia is full of meaning and recollection, says an exchange. "Far and away, back beyond the time of tradition, into the time of myth, and across that to its first beginnings, to the 'back of beyond,' as an Irishman might express it, the history of this stretches. The Hittites, the Assyrians, the Babylonians, the Assyrians—Mesopotamia crossed and recrossed by the endless marches of Assyrian kings' building and rebuilding and rebuilding the Assyrian empire—these were the very early times, largely mythical, more largely still traditional, with gleams here and there of established fact. The student of this period greets with a curious welcome such names as Nebuchadnezzar, Tiglath-Pileser and Sennacherib. Then follows the coming of the Persians and the story of Cyrus, the Persian hosts on their way through the river country to conquer Greece. Later still, the march of the Greek hosts, under Alexander; then the Greek period, followed by the Roman period; the struggles against the Roman authority, the Parthian period and the Sassanian period; the Caliphs, and finally the coming of the Ottoman Turks. Such are the great pylons in the history of the country. For the rest, since the coming of the Turk down to the present day, it is silence. Now, after a lapse of something like two thousand years, Mesopotamia is, once again, traversed by great armies. It is true that Sir John Nixon's force is small compared with the forces of Cyrus or Alexander the Great, but the resources at his disposal are immense and the issue at stake immeasurably greater than that involved in any of the wars of conquest of bygone times. For many months past the British expeditionary force has been making good its ground at the head of the Persian gulf. Here, as elsewhere, the world had almost grown accustomed to what looked like stagnation. Then, with an unexpectedness, characteristic of such movements, came the Austen Chamberlain's statement in the House of Commons, telling of General Nixon's march, and adding the words which are likely to become historic, that the Turkish forces were in full flight towards Bagdad, the British force pursuing.

Tigris and Euphrates are two names bound up with some of the greatest movements and events in history. This present movement, the great sweep north of the Anglo-Indian forces under General Nixon, is not below the standard of importance set by its predecessors. Few would care to forecast events in this district, more than usually full, as it is, of possibilities and uncertainty, but speculation here is certainly fraught with more than usual interest."

CIVIC PRIDE.

Citizens of any community should be loyal to their home. They should be proud of it for it is just the kind of a community that they and their friends make it. Civic pride does not merely mean boasting of this or that advantage. Nature often furnishes many of them, man promotes the rest. Janesville has its wonderful river winding down through its very center and its high hills and its trees and natural resources. Man has given it a central location in the garden spot of southern Wisconsin with railroads running to the four points of the compass and dissecting and bisecting the lands surrounding. Man has created good roads, is establishing a good lighting system, has created a power by damming the waters of the river, and has also given the community a stable form of city government. Man has done these things and can do more. Nature has given the surrounding country a rich and fertile soil ready for man to turn it, plant crops and reap the harvest. Between man and nature much can be accomplished. Civic pride can do much to aid man to make up their decision relative to promoting this or that business enterprise. Civic pride can help in establishing much-needed reforms in every community and working hand in hand citizens make or break any city. Janesville citizens have always been loyal to their home city. There is perhaps no other community that has business men as liberal in their donations for this or that enterprise, this or that undertaking for the general betterment of the existing conditions. It would seem that there is no end to their generosity although there is an old saying that "you can ride a gift horse to death." However, civic pride plays an important part in these contributions and civic pride if properly fostered will mean much for the future of the city. With the natural and the man-created advantages Janesville boasts have rare talking points and they should not neglect them. Good railroads, good streets, good lighting, good homes, fine churches, excellent schools, good power and substantial banks and business houses are all assets that go to make up the life of a community, and Janesville has them all with the advantage of an ideal, natural location and a healthful climate.

BASEBALL.

To millions of men in stores, offices and factories, spring begins the day when the major league teams pitch the first ball. To them the newspapers, previously dull and tame, now take on thrilling interest and are eagerly sought for and read.

The intense popular interest excited by baseball and other sports is deplored by philosophers. It occupies the attention, not merely of that great host of men so situated that they can attend league games, but of millions all over the country. In every cross roads section you find young men who pore over the scores of the big leagues, the local teams, and minor leagues representing their own state and section.

There are many newspapers today that during the height of the season give a page or two to baseball. Meanwhile the same papers might not give half a column to a debate in congress. To serious-minded persons, attention is thus diverted from problems of social advance to pursuits that are wholly trifling.

Yet the same men who study so exhaustively the box scores would never be reading congressional debates or literary reviews. Perhaps the tremendous interest in sport today has had something to do with the decline of the yellow novel. Many of us can remember how in our boyhood our comrades would steal off to the haymow to read "The Bloody Butcher's Bride," or "The Demon of Dandelion Den," and other gory trash. Whoever sees anyone reading that kind of stuff today?

The same type of fellow today is reading about the sale of Tris Speaker, and arguing with his mates about the prowess and records of favorite pitchers. At any rate, as compared with the cheap novel, it is an interest in real skill as against a false and impossible dreamland of fiction. With many men, baseball fills a void that could be much worse occupied.

DEMOCRATIC HOBGOBLINS.

The democratic woods are full of ghosts, the ghosts of failure, of false promises, of incompetency, of extravagance, of financial incapacity, of deficits, and of many other things which are rising to plague the party. This is the year of reckoning, and although the figures have been garbled to some extent, the people will be able to estimate the account which should be credited to the deficit side. In order to obscure their own troubles as far as possible the democrats are taking the position of advising republicans. Democratic leaders on speech-making tours are telling the republicans what they ought to do. Democratic newspapers are selecting candidates for the party and, in the meantime, a salvage committee is at work trying to rescue the wrecked platform of Baltimore and reconstruct it for use in 1916. The broken planks are poor material for a seaworthy boat, and it will be difficult to keep the party afloat under such circumstances. Republicans never have sought democratic advice and they are wise enough not to take it. On the other hand, the democrats are ready in need of advice, consolation and comfort, and there are few to offer it to them. The democratic party is worried and it is fast approaching a state of fright. The enthusiasm which is apparent is very much of the order of the noise made in passing through a graveyard, seeking to keep away the spooks. The democrats are whispering to keep up their courage, but it is a sorry task. The time of reckoning has arrived, the party is unprepared to meet it, and it must take the consequences.

The question is asked what has become of the prominent citizens who used to sit on the platform and take part in the Memorial Day exercises? Well, apparently they are either dead or gone automobile riding, while their small sons are helping keep up the celebration of the day by marching along side of the bass drum player in the parade.

If carpenters are seen putting up book shelves in the President's office, he is not so apt to be making additions to his library, as finding room to file our correspondence with Germany.

The fact that a boy can't stow away hay in the barn because the dust would injure his lungs doesn't prove that he can't go motor riding on a dusty day.

The man who has the most pronounced preference for the horse over the automobile, must admit that the gasoline tank, unlike the stable, was never a fly breeder.

If your heart does not show the least tendency to go pit-a-pat when you see the first big circus bill of the spring, conclude that you are growing old.

After deploring the too slight interest taken by our citizens in public affairs, most men proceed to buy the newspaper having the best baseball news.

These agricultural advisers now being appointed for so many counties will have to know what the prosperous modern farmer should do when his motor skips.

Mother's Day is most commonly celebrated by Mother making extra preparations for a big Sunday dinner.

Little Miss Pronounce.

Of seed a peck the seeds man tossed us.
Then pecks and pecks, alas!
Oft we wonder just what it cost us,
That little blade of grass.

"Professor," said little Rollo, "will you please tell me the correct way to pronounce the name of the Mexican bandit whose name appears so frequently in the public prints?"
"A very good question, Rollo," answered the professor. "However, as that is a point about which I myself am still a trifle hazy, we will seek our answer on the public highways, and perhaps by-ways. For in matters of pronunciation, Rollo, the lexicographers are always guided by the usage of the multitude."
And they fared forth, and to the first man they met the professor put the question: "How, sir, if you please, do you pronounce the name of the infamous Mexican bandit, spelled V-i-l-l-a?"

"The correct pronunciation is Vee-lah," replied the wayfarer readily. "The gills are silent, as in a fish."

But the next man, being asked replied, "Oh, you mean Vwulla—it's pronounced with Roosevelt consonants." "You pronounce it Rosengarten, because of the Spanish 'l's and 'v's. Not at all. You're quite welcome."

And the professor and little Rollo returned to the classroom musingly.

Age Not Always a Remedy for Squint.

It is a popular superstition that a child will grow out of a squint. This is true in some cases—those of the temporary squint of infants, for instance, but even then, according to the British Journal of Children's Diseases, it should be a warning that the brain's control over the eyes is weak and that when the child goes to school or has a serious illness the squint may become permanent. Even if the eye be straightened it will have lost its power of vision.

Red Hair and Pugnacity.

Red-headed persons have always been reputed to be quick-tempered and ready to fight at the slightest provocation. "Red-haired people be folk that are to drede," runs a precept of the fifteenth century; and an old French proverb says: "Salute no red-haired man nearer than 80 feet off, and even so, hold three stones in thy fist wherewith to defend thyself."

Reptiles Bother Travelers.

The big, hairy spider, the tarantula, is bred in Mexico. It grows to be six or seven inches in length and inflicts a painful and serious sting, which is supposed to have a disagreeable though not a fatal effect. Other smaller species of spiders exist in Mexico. The venomous snakes are usually easily shot by marksmen, and the other harmful creatures are only disagreeable when teased.

Utility of Gasoline.

A single gallon of gasoline will milk 300 cows, bale four tons of hay, mix 35 cubic yards of cement, move a ton of truck 14 miles, plow three-fifths of an acre of land or generate sufficient electricity to illuminate a farmhouse for 30 hours.

SISTER'S BABY DIES IN FALL INTO TANK

Otto Schoenrock Learns of Second Fatal Accident in Five Years to Kin's Family.

Otto Schoenrock, 641 Hickory street, this morning received a message from Clintonville telling of the death by drowning in a tank water tank yesterday of the fifteen months old son of his sister, Mrs. George Schmidt. The father was at a cheese factory and the mother was engaged in work about the barn. The child went from the house to the trough and it is thought must have fallen directly into the water, the tank being set on a side hill with one side almost level with the surface of the water. Mrs. Schmidt, missing the boy, began a search and discovered the body but a short while after the time it is figured that the aid applications proved unavailing. This is the second regrettable accident to be met with by Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt within the last five years. In 1911 an eight year old daughter was burned to death. The family was working in the field during the summer season, and along towards noon the usefulness and wishing to surprise her parents, detached from the home and began the preparation of the dinner. She had placed the kindling in the stove and was about to light the fire when the child set fire to her light dress. She ran screaming from the house towards the field, quite a distance away. Mr. and Mrs. Schmidt, finding the child, rushed toward the house only to discover the most pitifully charred and crisp little body in a lane on the way.

THREE HUNDRED ATTEND ANNUAL SOCIAL AT THE F. O. E. LODGE LAST NIGHT

Between two hundred and fifty and three hundred members of the Eagles lodge, Janesville, and their wives and friends enjoyed a most pleasant social evening last night at their club rooms. This was the first of a series of open house nights, which were given for the purpose of raising funds for the benefit of the lodge. The evening was spent in dancing, singing, and general amusement for the younger folk. At intervals the band played selections. The orchestra furnished music for the dancing. At a late hour a dinner was served, entirely by the men. The committee in charge did well in providing the entertainment for the evening.

ENTERTAINMENT IS GIVEN IN HONOR OF CHICAGO FRIENDS

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thorson of the Reddy flats, on Fourth avenue, pleasantly entertained twelve couples last evening in honor of the Misses Nester and Dixon of Chicago. Music, games, and readings furnished the amusement during the evening and at a late hour a four course luncheon was served. Tables were decorated in pink and white and favors were small pink candy baskets. The young ladies expect to return to Chicago the latter part of the week.

Avoidable Expenses of Administration

Every individual executor must furnish a bond to insure the faithful discharge of his duties. The amount of the bond varies with the value of the estate, but the premium is in each case a charge included in the expenses of administration borne by the estate.

A trust company, on the other hand, must deposit securities with the state treasurer to guarantee the proper performance of its duties in all fiduciary capacities, and hence may not be required to give any bond.

Your appointment of this reliable company as your executor may thus save your estate the expense of a bond premium and at the same time will assure its business-like administration.

"NERVOUSNESS"

No matter how severe, can be cured by taking the MILK AND REST TREATMENT. In this busy life of ours the nervous system is so overtaxed that it gives way under the strain.

The one afflicted may be the energetic man who too closely applies himself to business; the mother, wife or sister who has overdone in the care of her household duties; the school girl who applies herself too ardently to her studies, or the girl who loses much time, rest and sleep in social affairs.

In all such conditions there is a queer feeling, especially in the head, as though something awful was going to happen.

Relief and cure may be had by taking the MILK AND REST TREATMENT.

ONLY A ROSE

By DOROTHY BLACKMORE.

"You do like my gown then?" Nancy questioned. She reached out and extracted a solitary pink rose that had lent its beauty to his writing table. "I think I need this in my hair," she said and tucked the flower among the riot of golden curls. After his smile of approval she skipped off. It was quite time for the first guest to arrive for her coming-out party.

Kennard watched her go and sighed a trifle wearily. He was old beyond his thirty-five years in that he had, at the age of twenty-one, gone through a frightful train wreck which left him mentally aged and physically lame.

At twenty-five, his closest friend, older by many years than Kennard, had died, leaving a slim, delicate girl orphaned and oddly alone in the world. Kennard had adopted Nancy Vale because Vale had left her to him.

The doorman rang many times and men and women flocked into the great Kennard drawing-room where Nancy, looking not more than fifteen in her simple gray frock, welcomed her guests. Often her big eyes glanced swiftly at the stairs leading from the library, but each time they returned to smiles and laughter with a hint of wistfulness growing in their clear depths. "Nunky" was so absorbed in his story as to forget that he had promised to come in and join her party.

It was not until silence reigned again in the great house and a small pink rose drooped wearily in Nancy's curls that she tiptoed softly to the library door. The quiet of that room told her that the story was finished and that "Nunky" was smoking the restful cigarette that always followed the completion of a good day's work.

"May I come in?" she questioned, already over the threshold.

Kennard opened wide his eyes. "I just wanted to say good night," she said softly, and stroked back the lock of snowwhite hair that lay across Kennard's broad forehead.

"You grow more like your father every day," he said in quick appreciation of her instinctive understanding. "He was the most unselfish and considerate man that ever walked the earth. I'm sorry, kiddie, that your old uncle forgot the coming-out party. I could only have limped about trying vainly to banish my hero and his woes from my mind. I will get you another string of those beads."

"Beads! How dare you call my matchless pink pearls beads!" She touched the exquisite present from him that clasped her slender neck. She looked anxiously at him. "You won't sit up any longer will you—it's late now."

"Only till the cigarette puffs out," he told her and watched her skip off and up to her room.

Kennard sat for a few moments wearily looking at the door through which his ward had gone. Gradually his eyes focused themselves on a faded pink flower that lay just within the library door. It was the rose Nancy had worn in her hair.

Kennard rose and picked it up and returned to his desk with it. He sat gazing softly, tenderly, at it and, a second later, his lips caressed it tenderly.

No sooner had he touched the withered flower than he drew back swiftly. The meaning of his action went over him like a flame of fire.

"God!" he cried in terror at his own emotion. "Not that! Surely not that—she's only a child!" He sat stunned. A few minutes later his head went forward on his arms and the rose was again against his lips.

Nancy, creeping softly down the stairs, tried to stifle the beating of her heart when she glanced swiftly at the door just within the library door. There was no rose lying there. She stood for a moment, her great eyes devouring Kennard's bent shoulders and bowed head. The very softest sigh escaped her and Kennard raised his eyes slowly, believing a splendid vision had appeared to him.

Surely the slim little creature in the doorway was not Nancy. There was golden hair piled high and bound by the matchless pink pearls and a white throat rose like the stem of a lily from a low-cut bodice. The arms were bare and gleaming white.

"This is the new gown auntie bought for me," she explained swiftly, her words hysterically broken. She had seen the crushed rose under Kennard's hand. Her eyes were like stars and her body was trembling with elation. It was unbelievable, this wonderful thing that had happened. Paul Kennard loved her!

He brushed his eyes dazedly. He dared scarcely look at Nancy so great was his longing for her. Her suddenly-revealed womanly beauty had made him weak.

"The gown is lovely," he said feebly, trying to speak in the old way. "But run up to your bed, kiddie—it's time little girls were asleep."

"It's time little girls were grown up," Nancy said. And the subtle note of womanhood had entered her voice. She drew close to Kennard and her gleaming arms twined up and about his neck. "If you won't tell me you love me," she said—and there was a sob in her voice—"I don't want to live."

Kennard's arms closed about her swiftly, hungrily.

A rose lay on the desk—the pink rose she had worn in her hair. (Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

NELSON IS PLAYING WITH CHICAGO GREYS

Chicago Player Who Was With Cardinals for a Time Last Year, Playing First Again for Greys.

With one game under their belt, the Jamesville Cardinals will tackle the fast Chicago Greys Sunday afternoon at the Association Park diamond, in their second game. A tight and hard fought contest is looked for between these two teams for the Greys last year gave the Cardinals, playing at their best, a merry two to one battle, which the Cardinals won.

This year the Greys are stronger than ever. They have Joe Nelson, the scrappy first baseman, who played with the Cardinals five games, on first base. Outside of a weakness at first, this Nelson is about as good a first sacker as played in Jamesville last year. They have Hybert at short, Jar-sack, second, and O'Conner at third for their infield. Le Ross, a notorious heavy chouter, is playing field along with Lyons and Forest. Three pitchers will be here for the Greys, Bixler, Carson and O'Brien.

The line-up for the Cardinals will be about the same as last Sunday. In his showed plenty of slugging ability during his stay on the mound and another week's work should place the ex-feral leaguer in prime place to go the full length and win. The Cardinals have local fans a big and welcome surprise when the Madison batters did not get a safe single off him during his stay on the mound. He will probably start the game Sunday against the Greys.

This Chicago team is as good a club as there is in the Windy City semi-pro circles on defense. They are lightening fast on the diamond but last year were rather weak with the stick. They have corrected this fault this year and if so, the Cardinals will certainly have to speed-up the run making machinery to get away with the game.

Fate of Annie Laurie.
The familiar song of "Annie Laurie" says the London Chronicle, was written by a soldier in Flanders to his ladylove at home. The writer was William Douglas, and Annie Laurie was one of the three daughters of Sir Robert Laurie of Maxwellton. Sad to relate, Annie did not marry her ardent lover. Some say that Douglas was killed in Flanders, but whether or not that is so, Annie was led to the altar in 1709 by James Ferguson of Craigdarroch.

LAUGHABLE FARCE AT MYERS THEATRE

The Sherman Kelly Stock Company in the Presentation of "The Innocent Thief" Last Night Produced Many a Laugh.

To all who attended the fun festival last night at Myers theatre not one could but show appreciation for the Sherman Kelly Stock company's effort to provide a satisfying plenty of refreshing amusement crowded into the evening's performance. "The Innocent Thief," a musical comedy, made only for laughing purposes and it surely satisfied the audience in the accomplishment of the same. From the very start the best of complications started to come and continued to come faster and more startling as the farce proceeded, until they worked up to a very thrilling climax at the finish. Each part seemed to be a separate person exactly and all involved in the last moving plot seemed to try to outdo each other in their effort to crawl out the humorous situations which the audience for their part.

"The Will of the Parish" was the name of the drama the company presented yesterday afternoon and it possessed a touch that was sure in its effort to make home.

The Sherman Kelly company have attracted a host of friends so far in their engagement here and are bound to gather more before the week is out. The beauty and the comedy of the comedy attraction for this evening at the Myers theatre.

"NE'ER DO WELL" AT BEVERLY THEATRE

Rex Beach's Novel Picturized in Ten Reels Pleases Large Audience.

The much anticipated film version of Rex Beach's novel, "The Ne'er-do-well," was presented at the Beverly Theatre yesterday. The capacity audience last night appeared to enjoy it greatly, responding to all the colorful subtleties and the antics of one Allan Allan, as well as some subtleties of comedy and mother of a bouncing ball. There is a deal of vigorous action, such as the exuberant footballers' battle of the stairway, which makes a virile appeal.

There are a lot of interesting settings, many of them taken down in Panama, which makes the venture a full worthy one. There are, too, some interesting bits of characterization.

Kathly Williams, as Corlanti, gives a finished piece of acting, ablaze with dammed-up passion of an over-healthy woman prisoned in humdrum.

Wheeler Oakman, in the title role, makes a live, good looking hero. Jack McDonald, as the negro Allan Allan, gives a characterization worthy of praise.

A satirical comparison of the official treatment of American and British subjects in a foreign land was injected in the jail scene. "The Ne'er-do-well" is a fitting sequel to "The Spoilers." With all its depth of love and soft tropical beauty, Danish jealousy and black intrigue, and the naked passions of men and women based upon the love of power can bare them. With its hero football players from New York ensnared like by the southern beauty, Chiquita, and a seductive, wealth-seeking wife of the other man, The Seig company has made a very creditable film.

An intermission at the end of the fifth reel would have been greatly appreciated by the majority of the audience and would have relieved the strain occasioned by watching ten reels at a sitting.

DISTRICT CONVENTION OF ODD FELLOWS IS HELD AT MILTON ON WEDNESDAY

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)
Milton, May 25.—The district convention of the I. O. F. met yesterday with the local lodge. The afternoon session was devoted to the address of welcome by Rev. A. Porter, with a response by W. O. Johnson, president of the association. Questions pertaining to the order and its work, etc., were discussed. At the evening session the first degree work was exemplified by the degree staff, after which lunch was served. The next meeting of the association will be held in August with Fort Atkinson lodge. There was a large attendance, as the following list indicates: H. W. Lee, A. C. Thorpe, L. M. Nelson, G. H. Davey, Charles Ward, Otto E. Smith, George Corry, J. T. Campbell, R. W. Coon, J. Blair, R. Saving Your Mirrors.

Sunshine is destructive to mirrors and often causes them to assume a milky appearance which can never be removed. In arranging your room be careful to place the mirror so it won't receive the direct rays of the sun.

Tarnished Silver.

Tarnished silver is easily cleaned with powdered whiting mixed to a paste with ammonia and water. Rub the paste on with one leather and have another leather to polish it off again.

GET IN TUNE WITH SPRING.

Spring is a season of bounding life and renewed activity. If man or woman lacks ambition and energy, there is something wrong. If you feel heavy, dull, languid and listless, it is more than likely that your kidneys are not throwing out the waste matter from your system as they should. Foley Kidney Pills act directly and quickly. They help the kidneys do their work and cast out the poisons that cause rheumatism, aches, pains, stiffness and soreness. Relieves bladder weakness, too.—W. T. Sherer.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

By DAISY DEAN.

Everyone in Los Angeles has some connection with the motion picture industry. It is estimated that half a million people can trace the source of their income to the film. And the rest, merchants, professional men and the like, share in the general prosperity. School girls want to emulate Mary Pickford and Blanche Sweet, and some of the men do. Bessie Love, a Los Angeles high school girl, is one who did; and in the short space of a single year she rose to leading lady in some of the most important feature photo plays.

First she played as an "extra." Being observant, she soon became acquainted with the demands of the work, and when John Emerson came from the east to star in "The Flying Torpedo," and she was given the part of a Swedish servant girl, she seized the opportunity to show herself as one of the leading figures of the film. Soon after that, with entire success, she played with William S. Hart in "The Arvan." Then Douglas Fairbanks came and borrowed her for his "The Good Bad Man." She shortly is to appear in another feature called "Reggie Mixes In."

DeWOLF HOPPER IN "AT THE BAT"

Director Lloyd Ingraham is ready to stake his life that he has found the small town where there are more fans than in Mudville, and to this place he has brought the company producing "Casey at the Bat," with DeWolf Hopper as Casey have now gone. A former professional baseball player has been secured to assist in the direction, and players make up two entire baseball teams. A cast composed of Margaret Marsh, Frank Bennett, Kate Tour-crav, Carl Stockdale, Elmo Lincoln, and Max Girlich, have been selected to support the big comedian, who looks like a giant in his baseball uniform.

HERE ARE THE FACTS YOU WANT TO KNOW

Had you heard these little items before?

Ten million people attend moving pictures shows weekly.

Joe's wife is the wife of Tom Moore and mother of a bouncing ball. There are 75,000 miles of film manufactured every year in the United States.

Robert Law, the dare devil, jumped from the Brooklyn bridge and swam away, avoiding arrest.

Thomas A. Edison, inventor of moving pictures, is making fewer pictures and every year.

Gail Kane traveled 4,000 miles making "The Other Sister."

President Wilson admits having seen Charlie Chaplin.

AT THE APOLLO.

Clara Kimball Young in "The Yellow Passport."

An event of real importance to motion picture patrons will be the return to the screen at the Apollo on Friday of Clara Kimball Young, the World Film corporation's peerless star.

Clara Kimball Young in "The Yellow Passport."

Sam Bernard on Friday. Some extremely novel as well as funny scenes in the new Triangle Keystone, "The Great Pearl Tangle." Why is a serial picture like our thorax? It's continued in our necks. Holbrook Blinn is having a theater built and named after him.

This is house cleaning season. Recently a little girl visitor asked to see Jackie Saunders. Her dressing room was pointed out and the child knocked on the door. It was answered by a young woman with sleeves rolled up and a broom.

"Oh, no," said the girl. "You're dressed too much like my mamma," and ran away.

Sam Bernard, who is featured in the production as a designer, uses a dozen mannequins wearing the last word in gowns and hats to display to the customers. The atmosphere of this costume parlor affords Bernard ample scope to bring out his unique line of comedy.

Many comical incidents are recorded by the camera, showing the star at his best in displaying the charms of his models and his laughable antics in winning their attention.

Survival of Ancient Type. One of the strangest animals known to zoologists is the tenrec, an insect-eating animal found only in the island of Madagascar. It is supposed to represent a very ancient type of animal which is now almost extinct. Madagascar, once a part of the mainland of the African continent, was separated therefrom at a very remote period in the past. As a result a fauna peculiar to the island has been developed.

AT THE APOLLO.

Noted Baritone Coming Saturday and Sunday. One of the attractions scheduled at the Apollo on Saturday and Sunday of this week is Paul Herbert Schmidt, a noted baritone who has made a great success in various parts of the country and who has been heard here in concert.

Mr. Schmidt has a voice of remarkable suavity and good power and a musicianship and artistry which are well adapted to his appearance. Here will be a treat to all lovers of music.

And then neither of them spoke for several minutes. Nor did either look at the other during that silence.

At last Mr. Vertrees contrived to cough, but not convincingly. "What—ah—what was it Mary said about him this afternoon? I didn't ah—happen to catch it."

"She—she didn't say much. All she said was this: 'He's the most wistful creature I've ever known.'"

"Well?"

"That was all. He is wistful-looking; and so fragile. If I hadn't known about him I'd have thought he had quite an interesting face."

"If you 'hadn't known' about him? Known what?"

"Oh, nothing, of course," she said hurriedly. "Nothing definite, that is Mary said decidedly, long ago, that he's not at all insane as we thought at first. It's only—well, of course it is odd, their attitude about him. I suppose it's some nervous trouble that makes him—perhaps a little queer at times, so that he can't apply himself to anything—or perhaps does odd things. But, after all, of course, we only have an impression about it. We don't know—that is, positively."

"She paused, then went on: 'I didn't know just how to ask—that is—I didn't mention it to Mary. I didn't—' The poor lady floundered pitifully, concluding with a mumble. "So soon after—after the—shock."

"I don't think I've caught more than a glimpse of him," said Mr. Vertrees. "I wouldn't know him if I saw him, but your impression of him is—" He broke off suddenly, springing to his feet in agitation. "I can't imagine her—oh no!" he gasped. And he began to pace the floor. "A half-witted epileptic!"

"No, no!" she cried. "He may be all right. We—"

"Oh, it's horrible! I can't!" He threw himself back into his chair again, sweeping his hands across his face, then letting them fall limply at his sides.

Mrs. Vertrees was tremulous. "You mustn't give way so," she said, inspired for once almost to direct discourse. "Whatever Mary might think of doing, it wouldn't be on her own account; it would be on ours. But if we should—should consider it, that wouldn't be on our own account. It isn't because we think of ourselves."

"Oh God, no!" he groaned. "Not for us! We can go to the poorhouse, but Mary can't be a stenographer!"

Sighing, Mrs. Vertrees resumed her obliqueness. "Of course," she murmured, "it all seems very premature, speculating about such things, but I had a queer sort of feeling that she seemed quite interested in this—" She had almost said "in this one," but checked herself. "In this young man. It's natural, of course; she is always so strong and well, and he is—seems to be, that is—rather appealing to the—sympathies."

"Yes!" he agreed, bitterly. "Precisely. The sympathies!"

"Perhaps," she faltered—"perhaps you might feel easier if I could have a little talk with someone?"

"With whom?"

"I had thought of—not going about it too brusquely, of course, but perhaps just waiting for his name to be mentioned, if I happened to be talking with somebody that knew the family—and then I might find a chance to say that I was sorry to hear he'd been ill so much, and—something of that kind perhaps?"

"You don't know anybody that knows the family?"

"Yes. That is—well, in a way, of course, one of the family. That Mrs. Roscoe Sheridan is not a—that is, she's rather a pleasant-faced little woman, I think, and of course rather ordinary. I think she is interested about—that is, of course, she'd be anxious to be more intimate with Mary, naturally. She's always looking over here from her house; she was looking out of the window this afternoon when Mary went out, I noticed—though I don't think Mary saw her. I'm sure she wouldn't think it out of place—to be frank about matters. She called the other day, and Mary must rather like her—she said that evening that the call had done her good. Don't you think it might be wise?"

"Wise? I don't know. I feel that the whole matter is impossible."

"Yes, so do I," she returned, promptly. "It isn't really a thing we should be considering seriously, of course. Still—"

"I should say not! But possibly—"

Thus they skiddled up and down the field, but before they turned the lights out and went upstairs it was thoroughly understood between them that Mrs. Vertrees should seek the earliest opportunity to obtain definite information from Sibly Sheridan concerning the mental and physical status of Bibbs. And if he were subject to attacks of lunacy, the unhappy pair decided to prevent the sacrifice they supposed their daughter intended to make of herself. Altogether, if there were spiteful ghosts in the old house that night, eavesdropping upon the woful comedy, they must have died anew of laughter!

CHAPTER XVII.

Mrs. Vertrees' opportunity occurred the very next afternoon. Darkness had fallen, the piano movers had come. They had carried the piano down the front steps, and Mrs. Vertrees was standing in the open doorway behind them, preparing to withdraw, when she heard a sharp exclamation; and Mrs. Roscoe Sheridan, bareheaded, emerged from the shadow into the light of the doorway.

"Good gracious!" she cried. "It did give me a fright!"

"It's Mrs. Sheridan, isn't it?" Mrs. Vertrees was perplexed by this informal appearance, but she reflected that it might be proverbial. "Won't you come in?"

"No. Oh no, thank you!" Sibly panted, pressing her hand to her side. "You don't know what a fright you've given me! And it was nothing but your piano!" She laughed shrilly. "I just glanced out of the window, a minute or so ago, and saw your door wide open and black figures of men against the light, carrying something heavy. And I thought I'd seen your daughter start for a drive with Bibbs Sheridan in a car about three o'clock—and—They aren't back yet, are they?"

"No. Good heavens!"

"And the only thing I could think of was that something must have happened to them, and I just dashed over—and it was only your piano!" She broke into laughter again. "I suppose you're just sending it somewhere to be repaired, aren't you?"

"It's—it's being taken downtown," said Mrs. Vertrees. "Won't you come in? I'd really—"

"Thank you, but I must be running back—My husband usually gets home about this time, and I make a little point of it always to be there."

"That's very sweet," Mrs. Vertrees descended the steps and walked toward the street with Sibly.

"I'm afraid Miss Vertrees will miss her piano," said Sibly, watching the instrument disappear into the big van at the curb. "She plays wonderfully, Mrs. Kittersby tells me."

"Yes, she plays very well. Mr. Sheridan came last evening to hear her play because she had arranged with—that is, it was to be removed this afternoon."

"Oh, Mentally Bibbs is All Right," said Sibly.

ernoon. He seems almost well again."

"Yes," Sibly nodded. "His father's going to try to start him to work."

"He seems very delicate," said Mrs. Vertrees. "I shouldn't think he would be able to stand a great deal, either physically or—"

She paused and then added, glowing with the sense of her own adroitness—"or mentally."

"Oh, mentally Bibbs is all right," said Sibly, in an odd voice.

"But has he always been?" The question came with anxious eagerness.

"Certainly. He had a long siege of nervous dyspepsia, but he's over it."

"And you think—"

"Bibbs is all right. You needn't worry—"

Sibly choked, and pressed her handkerchief to her mouth. "Good night, Mrs. Vertrees," she said, hurriedly.

"Won't you come in?" urged Mrs. Vertrees, cordially, hearing the sound of a cheerful voice out of the darkness beyond the approaching glare of automobile headlights. "Do! There's Mary now, and she—"

But Sibly was half-way across the street. "No, thanks," she called. "I hope she won't miss her piano!" And she ran into her own house and plunged headlong upon a leather divan in the hall, holding her handkerchief over her mouth.

The noise of her tumultuous entrance was evidently startling, for there followed the crash of a decanter upon the floor of the dining room, and after a rumble of indistinct profanity, Roscoe came forth, holding a dripping napkin in his hand.

"What's your excitement?" he demanded. "What do you find to go into hysterics over? Another death in the family?"

"Oh, it's funny!" she gasped. "Those old frost-bitten people! I guess they're getting their comeuppance!"

Lying prone, she elevated her feet in the air, clapping her heels together repeatedly, in an ecstasy.

"Come through, come, through!" said her husband, crossly. "What you been up to?"

"Me?" she cried, dropping her feet and swinging around to face him. "Nothing. It's them! Those Vertreeses!" She wiped her eyes. "They've had to sell their piano!"

"Well, what of it?"

"That Mrs. Kittersby told me all about 'em a week ago," said Sibly. "They've been hard up for a long time, and she says as long ago as last winter she knew that girl got a pair of walking shoes re-soled and patched, because she got it done the same place Mrs. Kittersby's cook had hers!"

"Well, well?" he urged, impatiently. "Well, I'm telling you! Mrs. Kittersby says they haven't got a thing! Just absolutely nothing—and they don't know anywhere to turn! She says the whole town's been wondering what would become of 'em. The girl had plenty of chances to marry up to a year or so ago, but she was so indifferent she scared the men off. Gracious! they were lucky! Mary her? The man that found himself tied up to that girl—"

"Terrible funny, terrible funny!" said Roscoe, with sarcasm. "It's so funny I broke a cut glass decanter and spilled a quart of—"

"Wait!" she begged. "You'll see. I saw a big wagon drive up and some men go into the house. Well, I thought I'd see, so I slipped over—and it was their piano! They'd sold it and were trying to sneak it out, after dark, so nobody'd catch on!" Again she gave way to her enjoyment, but resumed, as her husband seemed about to interrupt the narrative, "Wait a minute, can't you? Yes, they'd sold it; and I hope they'll pay some of their debts. They owe everybody, and last week a coal dealer made an awful fuss at the door with Mr. Vertrees. Their cook told our upstairs girl, and she said she didn't know when she'd seen any money, herself! Did you ever hear of such a case as that girl in your life?"

"What girl? Their cook?"

"That Vertrees girl! Don't you see they looked on our coming up into this neighborhood as their last chance? They were just going down and out, and here bobs up the green, rich Sheridan family! So they send her out to get a Sheridan—she's got to get one! And she just goes in blind; and Jim was landed—there's no doubt about that! But Jim was lucky; he didn't live to stay landed, and it's a good thing for him!" Sibly's mirth had vanished, and she spoke with virulent rapidity.

"Well, she couldn't get you, because you were married, and she couldn't get Jim, because Jim died. And there they were, dead broke! Do you know what she did? Do you know what she's doing?"

"No, I don't," said Roscoe, gruffly. Sibly's voice rose and culminated in a scream of renewed hilarity. "Bibbs! She waited in the graveyard, and drove home with him from Jim's funeral! Never spoke to him before! Jim wasn't cold!"

She rocked herself back and forth upon the divan. "Bibbs!" she shrieked. "Bibbs! Roscoe, think of it! Bibbs!"

He stared unsympathetically, but her mirth was unabated for all that. "And yesterday," she continued, between paroxysms—"yesterday she came out of the house—just as he was passing. She must have been looking out—waiting the chance; I saw the old lady watching at the window! And she got him there last night—to 'play' to him: the old lady gave that away! And today she made him take her out in a machine! And the cream of it is that they didn't even know whether he was insane or not—they thought maybe he was, but she went after him just the same! The old lady set herself to pump me about it today. Bibbs! Oh, my Lord! Bibbs!"

But Roscoe looked grim. "So it's funny to you, is it? It sounds kind of pitiful to me. I should think it would to a woman, too."

"Oh, it might," she returned, sobering. "It might, if those people weren't such frozen-faced smart Alecks. If they'd had the decency to come down off the perch a little I probably wouldn't think it was funny, but to see 'em sit up on their pedestal all the time they're eating dirt—well, I think it's funny! That girl sits up as if she was Queen Elizabeth, and expects people to wallow on the ground before her until they get near enough for her to give 'em a good kick with her old patched shoes—oh, she'd do that, all right—and then she powders up and goes out to mash—Bibbs Sheridan!"

"Look here," said Roscoe, heavily. "I don't care about that one way or another. If you're through, I got something I want to talk to you about. I was going to, that day just before we heard about Jim."

At this Sibly stiffened quickly; her eyes became intensely bright. "What is it?"

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

Dinner Stories

Although he is a Scotsman, Sir J. M. Barrie, whose delightful new play, "A Kiss for Cinderella," is drawing all London, does not in the least mind telling a story against his countrymen.

On one occasion a lady was jokingly reproaching him on the Scots' reputation for "nearness."

"Yes," said Barrie, "we Scots abhor waste. Did you ever hear of the aged Saunders Carlyle, who always drank off his whisky to the last drop the very instant it was poured out for him?"

"Why do you drink down your liquor in that quick way?" a stranger said to Saunders in a reproachful tone.

"I once had one knocked over," the old man explained.

Here is an amusing anecdote told by Sir James Crichton Browne, the famous doctor:

An acquaintance of his once tray-

eled in a first-class railway carriage and opposite to him there sat a young man and a girl, evidently newly married.

The carriage was devoid of light, and presently the train entered an enormously long tunnel. When it emerged Sir James' friend casually remarked to his companions: "That tunnel cost $500,000."

The young bridegroom gave a languishing look at his pretty bride.

"Ah!" he exclaimed, "and it was well worth the money!"

"Are you going to take boarders next summer?" asked the postmaster. "I dunno," replied Farmer Cornetson.

"I know some folk who would like a nice, quiet place."

"Yes. But all most of them people want with a nice, quiet place is to jump in an' fill it chock full of their own particular brand of noise."

Robbie, for his misdeeds, was about to get a thrashing. He left his mother's room and went to his own. Kneeling down beside his bed, and with his hands clasped, he offered up the following prayer:

"Please, God, if you are so good to little children as they say you are, now's Your chance."

CITY OF LA CROSSE
IN LEGAL TANGLES

Illegal Payment Deadlock Puts Wisconsin Municipality in a Very Tight Position.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

La Crosse, Wis., May 25.—While the administration of this city has been between rival factions armed with threats of injunctions, the public library is on the verge of closing its doors. Bridges on the only highway leading to La Crosse from Minneapolis are tottering and city officials are drawing reduced salaries as the result of a strange tangle of legal technicalities.

Included in the ramifications of the situation is a court decision which threatens to stamp out scores of county fairs, livestock and crop association throughout the state.

The "illegal payment deadlock," as the situation is known here, dates back to last autumn when Mayor A. Bentley, City Clerk E. Hoffman, Councilmen J. Fries and Theodore George W. Young, badgered by threats of an injunction from persons opposed to appropriations passed by the council, issued a statement saying that they would no longer sign orders on the treasury for any payment about which there was any question of legal right.

The city, for many years, has been supporting several quasi-public institutions, chief among them being the La Crosse public library. This institution received about $6,000 a year from the city and about $3,000 from the endowment fund of the late General William H. Allen, who founded it. It was governed by a self-perpetuating board of trustees.

Recently it was held by the courts that as the institution is not controlled by the public, it is not entitled to public support.

In another case the manufacturers and jobbers club organized a shipper's association to conduct a campaign against high freight rates. The city is to join by paying $500 initiation fees. The council passed the appropriation, putting the matter up to the mayor and his associates.

As responsibility for payment of the amount should it be successfully contested, would fall upon them personally, they hesitated. Members of the shipping association served notice that if the appropriation was not made they would obtain an injunction restraining the library appropriation.

The officials were up a stump and issued the ultimatum. Results were not slow in coming. The trustees of the library sued to compel the city to pay their appropriation. Judge Higbee ruled that as the institution was not publicly controlled, although with a public purpose, it was entitled to public aid. This decision, if upheld by the supreme court, to which it has been taken by trustees of the library, will cut off state appropriations for fairs, associations and many other enterprises which now are receiving state aid.

The library kept its doors open by borrowing money.

As a result of the attitude of the city officials to members of the board of public works, who had their salaries raised, were put back at their former rate of pay because the city attorney ruled that it was illegal to raise their pay while in office. One of them, Fred Schenck, has refused to accept the reduced checks and threatens to resign and force the city to the expense of another election.

Recently a sign was posted on the bridges on the highway to La Crosse, Minn., disclaiming municipal responsibility for any accidents which might occur on the pike.

The road and bridge built by the city of La Crosse thirty years ago and although in territory outside the state, have been maintained by the city. The road is the only highway between Minnesota and Wisconsin from Winona, Minn., to McGregor, Ia. The bridges are so shaky that they threaten to collapse any time, according to members of the board of trade.

At a fiery mass meeting at which speakers dared anyone to object to expenditure of money for repairs on the Minnesota highway, the board of trade adopted a resolution calling upon the council to repair the bridges.

As a climax to the whole affair a conference served notice on the mayor that he would seek an injunction against city officials and hold them personally responsible if any money was spent on the road in Minnesota. The officials retired behind their ultimatum and the deadlock tightened another notch where it stands at present.

Whence "Gringo."

In Spanish "gringo," pronounced greengro, means gibberish or unintelligible chatter. American Spaniards applied it to Americans and Englishmen in contempt because their language sounded like gibberish to the Spaniards. Now the term is applied in contempt to Americans in the same way that Americans speak of Mexicans as gringos.

MONROE GIRL STARTS SUIT FOR BREACH OF PROMISE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Monroe, Wis., May 25.—Eight thousand dollars damages is asked in a breach of promise suit filed in the Green county circuit court by Miss Pearl Elmont, of this city, against John Goetz, a tailor of this city. According to the allegation of the plaintiff it was on April 10, 1913, when Mr. Goetz laid his heart at her feet. After due deliberation his suit was accepted and he was informed that in September of the same year she would have her trousseau in readiness and would be prepared to stand with him under the orange blossoms and share his joys and sorrows of future years. The complaint further states that although more than two years have elapsed since the time set for the marriage, and more than three years since the question was popped, the plaintiff is still Miss Pearl Elmont. Mr. Goetz having failed to join hands with her before some minister and answer, "I will," to the questions propounded, E. D. McGowan, of Janesville, is attorney for the plaintiff.

COMMON AMERICAN BIRDS
INTERESTING INFORMATION ABOUT THEM SUPPLIED BY THE BUREAU OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY OF THE UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

FLICKER
(Colaptes auratus)

Length, thirteen inches. The yellow under surface of the wing, yellow tail shafts, and white rump are characteristic.

Range: Breeds in the eastern United States west to the plains and in the forested parts of Canada and Alaska; winters in most of the eastern United States.

Habits and economic status: The flicker inhabits the open country rather than the forest and delights in park-like regions where trees are numerous and scattered. It nests in any large cavity in a tree and readily appropriates an artificial box. It is possible, therefore, to insure the presence of this useful bird about the farm and to increase its numbers. It is the most terrestrial of our woodpeckers and procures much of its food from the ground. The largest item of animal food is ants, of which the flicker eats more than any other common bird. Ants were found in 524 of the 684 stomachs examined and 98 stomachs contained no other food. One stomach contained over 5,000 and two others held over 3,000 each. While bugs are not largely eaten by the flicker, one stomach contained 17 chinch bugs. Wild fruits are next to ants in importance in the flicker's diet. Of these sour gum and wild black cherry stand at the head. The food habits of this bird are such as to recommend it to complete protection.

MOTHERS OF SCHOOL DISTRICT SERVE DINNER ON FRIDAY: PROGRAM

Brodhead, May 26.—Mothers of school district No. 5, assisted by Andrew Strang and Miss Amanda Johnson, prepared a dinner Friday, May 12th, and served it on the school grounds. The program which was arranged consisted of several numbers, including an address by Charles L. Harper. The subject of his talk was "Community Work, the American Boy."

The value of a general education is worth much money. He spoke of education in dollars and cents. Ten dollars a day in the country school, if the student graduates, $27.50 for every day spent in high school. "Practically all persons," said Mr. Harper, "have on the average about forty years of active life." There are eighty-three thousand people in Wisconsin who earn on the average about $470.50 per year, while the better educated earn from $1,000 to $1,500. A large per cent of the population of Wisconsin who are ten years of age cannot read or write. These persons are the last to ever gain any prominence or good positions. It is true that a great many boys who have worked in the fields have gone through the University of Wisconsin, and they are men who win out in life's great race and hold prominent positions in the country. "The world is a sifter," said Mr. Harper, "the big ones come to the top."

Character is another essential in one's life to become a success. A good clean character, boys, a determined spirit, and be willing to do hard work, will make you good men. The cigarette habit is like that of snake bite, not to have a snake bite would not be your fault but the cigarette habit would.

After Mr. Harper's address several outdoor exercises were rendered to the music of a Victrola.

CUBS LOSE OUT IN THE NINTH INNING

Neihoff Hits Double, Winning Phillies' Tight Game.—Faber Put Sox Into Fifth Place.

A bright Cub victory, almost sewed up, was turned into a glaring defeat yesterday when the Phillies' ninth inning rally with Neihoff's double ended the game, Philadelphia winning 6 to 5. Previous to the ninth the Cubs had it nearly all their own way, as Tom Seaton was holding the Phillies well, while Tinker's crew solved Rixy and Al Demerese enough to pile up a lead of five runs.

Zimmerman got three solid swats during the game, counting runs with his punches. Two runs off Demerese apparently clinched the game for the Cubs as they led with three runs when one was out in the ninth. Good stepped up to bat in the ninth, and the Cub discord whined out a neat single. Killifer singled, and Rixy took Demerese's bat and scored Good with a hit. Neihoff then won with his double.

Red Faber halted the slipping Sox and beat Washington, with a little luck, by the score of 1 to 1, which nullified the Sox from the cellar into fifth position and put Washington back into second with Cleveland leading.

The Sox beat the Cubs, 4 to 2, tossed right into their hands, but the team as a whole showed better baseball, more fight and the victory went a long way to putting them on their feet. Three pitchers, Galla, Ayres and Joe Boehling, were used by Griffith and none of them were able to save the game. In the fifth inning when the Sox were trailing 1 to 0, Faber busted out a double that scored two and gave Chicago the game.

The New York Giants started east last night, carrying with them a National League record, having won every game on the western trip, and increasing their consecutive victory string to thirteen. They defeated the Cincinnati Reds yesterday by the score of 6 to 1, when the Giants fell on Schuler's last inning, scoring four runs. A wild pitch by Bush gave Cleveland the game against Philadelphia by the score of 5 to 4.

TED LEWIS KNOCKS OUT EDDIE MOHA AT DAYTON

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Dayton, O., May 24.—Ted Lewis knocked out Eddie Moha of Milwaukee here Wednesday night in the thirteenth round of their scheduled fifteen round bout. After flooring Moha with a left to the jaw at the opening of the thirteenth round, Lewis battered his opponent until the referee stopped the bout, as Moha was helpless.

It was an even fight for the first ten rounds. Moha, a harder hitter than Lewis, broke through the Englishman's guard repeatedly with stinging wallop that made the Britisher back up.

A left hook of his knocked Lewis against the ropes in the eighth round, but he came back and shot lefts and rights into Moha's mid-section. Lewis set a terrific pace after the tenth round and the Milwaukee boy was unable to withstand the attack.

MORRIS MILLER

Manager Robinson of the Dodgers is grooming Jimmy Johnson as a first baseman. Since the passing of John Hummel the Brooklyn club has had no understudy for use in case of accident. Jake Daubert, Robinson thinks Johnson will make a nice first sacker, though he is somewhat small for the job.

Faint hearted followers of the Giants who are already counting McGraw's men out of the race because of the poor start they have gotten, ought to derive some cheer from glancing at the records of 1914, in which year the Braves won the pennant. On May 1 Stallings' men had won two games and lost nine, while on May 15 their record was: Won three, lost fifteen, average .167. It was not until July that the Boston club began the drive which finally landed the championship.

Pitcher Gene Moore has been turned back by Mohr of Cleveland. He ostensibly went home because of illness of his wife, but the story from Mohr is that he violated the club's rule against late hours and drinking. At any rate he didn't get along with the Mohr manager and as Galloway was willing to take him on again, the deal was made.

His illness aggravated by the failure of the Beaumont team to win, Mike Finn recently resigned as manager of the Oilers and went back to his home in Little Rock. Beaumont folks, however, were not inclined to blame Finn and have insisted that he stay on with them, so that he may reconsider. Delahanty remains as field manager of the team.

By adding Pitcher Hugh Harbin and Outfielder Howard Murphy to his team Manager Newman of the Houston Bulls now has six former Port Ward players. The others are Al Lee, Louis Hulis, John Frismon and O. U. Dodd. The signing of Murphy disposes of the oft-repeated story that he would manage the Trinidad team in the Rio Grande league. There is no such league, in spite of all the work of John McCloskey's press agents.

As usual, the Brooklyn Dodgers are finding the western trip a hard one. If the schedule was arranged so that the Brooklyn team could play all of its games at Ebbets Field it is doubtful whether the seven other clubs could be bothered with them. But as the schedule is what it is, the club is in the cellar for just as many games on the road as at home, many now believe that the race will narrow down to the Giants, Phillies and Braves.

It is feared that Moe Criss, who once played with the St. Louis Browns and later with the Yankees, has played his last game of baseball. Criss is still in the hospital in the south with a badly broken ankle which may not knit so that it can be used again on the diamond. Criss broke his ankle in an exhibition game with the Giants on March 21. In rounding third base on a long drive he tripped over the bag and was carried off the field.

Enrico Palmoro, the young Cuban pitcher who was released the other day by McGraw to the Louisville Colonels, will be recalled at the end of the American Association season. Palmoro is still a youngster and another year in the minors will not hurt him. By next season he should be ready to take his place on the Giants' pitching staff.

Hughie Jennings, leader of the Tigers, is having a lot of trouble trying to find a pitcher who can go the full distance without letting the other side score a dozen runs or so. Coveleskie and George Dauss started the season in great form, but Dauss has been on the sick list for some time, while the work of the southpaw in the last few games has been poor.

McGraw has often said that Dave Robertson's ability to play ball was only bounded by his ambition. The presence of Roush appears to have acted as a spur to Dave and he is playing the best baseball of his career.

The umpiring in both big leagues this year has been a good deal to be desired. With several incompetents at work it is strange that as capable an arbitrator as Bill Brennan should be out of a job.

EXPECT THE RECORD FOR AUTOS TO DROP

Sentiment for Allied Aviator Keeps Race Driver From Practicing on Speed Track.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Indianapolis, May 25.—An oddity of human nature manifested itself at the Indianapolis speedway yesterday, when Josef Christiaens, the British war aviator, on military orders, refused to go after the track record. Just as Christiaens, in his English Sunbeam car, was about to start on this speed mission, someone showed him a telegram announcing the death of Georges Boillot. Boillot made and still held the track record of two and one-half miles in 1:30:13. The telegram advised that Boillot had been killed fighting in France in an aviation duel with five German aeroplanes. He raced at Indianapolis track in 1913, the year his team mate, Jules Goux, won Christiaens' hand race with Boillot in many European contests, and although he had never seen him during the war, he of course knew that they were fighting in the same cause. Christiaens kept his car idle for the day, purely out of sentiment, although he says he believes he can lower Boillot's record. Several other drivers have tried to do it in practice this year. Rickenbacker circled the course in 1:34; Oldfield in 1:40; Merz in 1:45; Aultken in his Peugeot has also circled the track in 1:37 several times, which is an average speed of 92.2 miles per hour.

Expect Record to Fall. There is not the slightest doubt among those who are daily attending the speedway practice bout that the record will fall May 30th. It seems that all the cars go faster and every driver has become intimately familiar with the eccentricities of the brick oval. They all realize that the driver element will be a very large factor and practice these days is a serious and dangerous business. How to take the turn, when shut off, and a thousand and one tricks are being studied in practice. Elimination trials will be held May 26th and 27th. Every car must show eighty miles an hour speed in these official tests for at least two and one-half miles before they will be eligible for the start May 30th. The trials will start in the order of the time they made in the official trial, the fastest car in the first position next the pole, and the racing numbers will be assigned in the same manner.

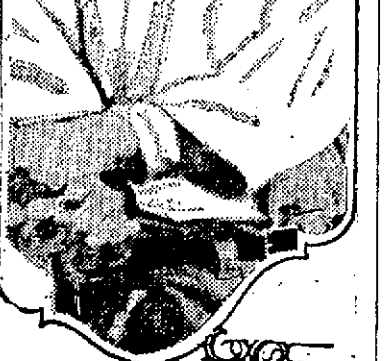

A suggestion has been made and will probably be followed out in some manner that the winners of former international classics on the Indianapolis speedway be honored at this year's event May 30th. None of the five former winners are entered this year. Two of them, Jules Goux and Rene Thomas, are either in the trenches or in the air in aeroplanes, fighting for France. The other three are Joe Dawson, Ray Harroun and Ralph De Palma, winners of the 1912, 1911 and 1916 respectively. De Palma tried to get in this year, but was too late, sending his entry after they had closed. Harroun and Dawson have both quit the racing game, permanently, they say. It is probable that a special stand will be built near the judges' stand, and dedicated to the winners, and that these three winners, Dawson, Harroun and De Palma, will occupy it this year as guests of the speedway.

Unusual Type of Sportsman. Already a great influx of visitors is noted at Indianapolis, where preparations are intense for the May 30th speedway race. A noticeable characteristic of automobile race drivers, is that they are all sportsmen.

WAHOO SAM ABOUT TO QUIT THE GAME?

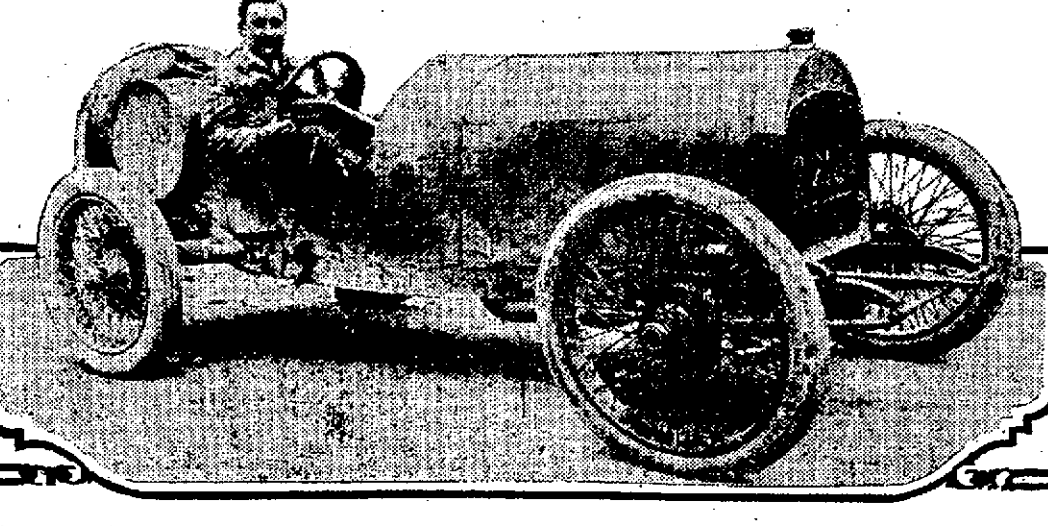

The news that Hughie Jennings plans to use Sam Crawford only as a pinch hitter henceforth will alarm the many friends of Wahoo Sam, who hope he is not nearing the close of his career. There can be no doubt, however, that Crawford's hitting has fallen off and that he has not now the strength in his legs he had in seasons past.

CHRISTIAENS QUILTS TRENCHES TO COMPETE IN AUTO CLASSIC

Who hesitate at no danger and will risk everything in competition with their rivals, is the true sportsmanship that exists among them during preparations for a race. They seem to go out of their way to serve one another. They will help each other when stumped by some mechanical trouble, or loan one another parts, and in fact there is no limit to the assistance they will give a rival before a race, although during the contest they fight each other, with desperation.

Sustenance in Nettles.

Nettles. good human food? Of course! They have been known as such immemorially in thrifty Switzerland and other careful countries. There is no better rival to spinach in the whole vegetable kingdom. And the nettle ought to be utilized, it does so abound. It is the one weed, almost the only one, that grows in all countries under the sun, so say gardeners who fight it year by year and have never taken the right revenge of eating it.—London Chronicle.

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

THE SYSTEM
It isn't what you make, my boy, but what you save, that counts. The folks that scrip and sacrifice have dough in large amounts. We've often heard from wise old heads. This bit of sage advice: The fellow who hangs on to his Will always have the price.

If it costs ten a week to live, And you are making eight, Hang on to all your surplus, lad, And then as sure as fate, It is a very patent fact, In a many decades lapse, You'll be a multi-millionaire, That is to say, perhaps.

THE HICKORYVILLE CLARION
There was quite a regrettable incident in the Deacon Pringle's back yard in the dead of the night. Hank Purdy was in the deacon's henhouse and was just comin' out with a couple of fowls for Sunday when he met. Hod Rentruf just goin' in. Neither one recognized the other and each thought the other was the deacon and both hit simultaneously. Hod got a black eye and Hank got a broken nose. The matter has been patched up now without appeal to the courts, as both gentlemen are somewhat modest about notoriety in this case.

A strange figger was seen on our village streets late at night several nights last week and there was talk of gettin' up a posse to run the mysterious culprit to earth, it being thought that he must be one of them Raffles fellows and raffles are strictly agin the law in these parts. It turned out to be Constable Ezra Hibbins who had completely disguised himself by removing his long flowing whiskers which he had since the last presidential was elected and nobody knewed him. He had to identify himself to the crowd by a tattooed ship on his breast and order was restored.

ADVICE TO YOUNG MEN

Young men, this is leap year still, and something is liable to happen to you at any moment. In such an emergency it is well to be prepared. There are a few sets of rules which you should follow. There is a likelihood of being asked to marry one of the fair creatures. Follow those rules and you will be happy. Marriage is an important step, you know, and the young man cannot be too careful in accepting a proposal.

If she is muscular, and has biceps like those of a section hand, think well before you take a chance. Do not marry a woman who has a fondness for pool and billiards or who spends much time in bowling alleys. This is liable to keep her away from home a great deal.

If you have your choice between a girl who smokes a pipe and one who smokes cigarettes, accept the one who smokes a pipe. She is more apt to make a success of her life and to provide for you in the future.

If she won't let you smoke in the house, so much the better. Smoking doesn't do you any good, anyhow.

When she hears burglars in the cellar, hop right out of bed and go and look for them. You need be scared, there won't be any burglars there, and if there should be, they will probably shoot you, and you will never have to hop out of bed to look for any more burglars.

down and you want it up, put it down, for you won't get any sleep if you don't.

HINTS TO LOVELORN GENTS
If she makes a practice of eating onions for supper every time you call, it is a sign that she is indifferent toward your suit.

If you spend a lot of money sending flowers to her every day, it may make a hit with her, but she will marry somebody who has more sense.

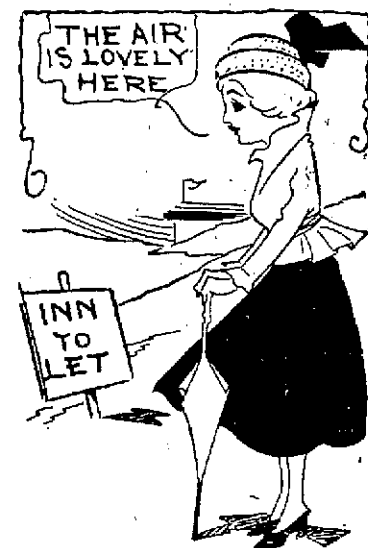

Don't talk to her about love in a cottage. Talk about a brownstone bungalow and spring the cottage on her after you get her.

If she is handsome, tell her about it, and if she isn't, tell her anyway.

Have an automobile catalogue in your coat pocket where she can catch a glimpse of it.

Debt World Owes to the Press.
In normal times, under ordinary, everyday conditions, the press has the immense advantage. Its facilities are incomparable. It sweeps the whole world and every day keeps alive in us a sense of common interest in the affairs of our community.—Dr. Albert Shaw.

EXCELLENT PIANOS AT ONE-HALF!

This Unusual Offer Is the Result of the Recent Special Sale

Many residents of Janesville and vicinity purchased pianos from the large and varied stock which Lyon & Healy sent us. Some bought their first piano, but a score of others who already had pianos desired Lyon & Healy instruments instead, and their old pianos were accepted by us as part payment toward the new. As a result our store is full to overflowing of used pianos.

These Used Pianos Are Marked at Great Reductions

Among them are well known makes and others owned by families who gave them the best of care, so that they are in excellent condition.

We Need Room For New Stock—Therefore This Special Offer

Ordinarily we could not sell used pianos at the low prices now marked on our stock.

Use on Some Pianos Acts as Use on Fine Violins

High grade pianos and fine violins become better by use and age. They gradually grow immune to climatic changes, and one of the wholesome effects of sound-board aging is increased mellowness of tone.

A Stool and Scarf Will Be Presented Free With Every Piano Purchase
